

ALTUVAS Website Disclaimer

Last Updated: 7/27/2025

General Medical Information

All content on the ALTUVAS website—including articles, graphics, videos, or other materials—is provided for informational and educational purposes only. It is not a substitute for professional medical advice, diagnosis, or treatment. Do not disregard medical advice or delay seeking it based on information obtained from this site.

Telehealth Limitation

ALTUVAS is a telehealth-only provider. We do not offer emergency services, in-person evaluations, or primary care. If your symptoms require a physical exam or escalate to an urgent/emergent condition, you should contact your local provider, visit an urgent care center, or dial 911.

No Doctor-Patient Relationship via Website

Visiting our website or submitting an inquiry does not establish a provider-patient relationship. That relationship is only formed when a patient completes registration, provides informed consent, and is seen by an ALTUVAS provider.

FDA & Treatment Disclaimers

Statements about supplements, medications, or lab-based interventions have not been evaluated by the FDA. Our services are not intended to diagnose, treat, cure, or prevent any disease and should be pursued under licensed clinical supervision.

Results May Vary

Testimonials or case studies presented on this site reflect individual experiences and do not guarantee similar results. Results may vary based on individual medical history, adherence to treatment, and other personal factors.

Holistic and Integrative Therapies

ALTUVAS may discuss complementary or integrative treatments. These approaches are meant to enhance—not replace—conventional care, and should be reviewed with your licensed provider.

Consultation Strongly Encouraged

Before beginning any treatment with ALTUVAS—particularly hormone therapy or weight optimization—we strongly advise you to consult with your primary care provider or specialist. ALTUVAS services are not intended to replace your ongoing care with a primary care provider.

Use at Your Own Risk

By using this website or engaging in any program offered through ALTUVAS, you acknowledge and accept that healthcare involves inherent risks. You agree to assume full responsibility for the decisions and actions you take based on the information presented.

Technology & Security

ALTUVAS uses secure, HIPAA-compliant platforms for video consultations and health data exchange. However, no digital transmission is ever completely secure, and by using this platform, you accept the associated risks.
